DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-5,7-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Weber (1882462). Please note the intended use carries no weight in the absence of any distinguishing structure. Fig. 2 shows a tool having a shaft 10 having a slot to form two portions extending lengthwise to a distal end and having a longitudinal axis. It can be seen the distal end of the shaft bending in a direction toward left for the left portion shaft and the right portion shaft bending to the right relative to the longitudinal axis of the shaft. There are at least two parallel pins 18 coupled to the shaft distal end and each pin extends in a direction perpendicular to a plane passing through the longitudinal axis. The tool is used with what can be construed as an implant 24 that includes at least two holes 23 and the pins being sized, directed, and spaced for simultaneous engagement with at least two of the at least two holes of the implant structure. The engagement enables repositioning of the implant via application of pressure to the shaft. Regarding claim 2, the implant is fully capable of being used as a spacer. With respect to claim 3, the implant is fully capable of being rotated. Regarding claim 4, the tool enables manipulation of the implant structure that can be to extract it from a location. With respect to claims 5,13 the intended use of the apparatus imparts no structural limitations and the tool and implant is capable of being used in any of the claimed approaches. Regarding claim 7, it can be interpreted that end 11 acts as a handle. With respect to claims 8,9 the shaft is symmetrically divided to have two prongs 12.

Regarding claim 10, it can be said that since the prong or arms 12 extend out from the shaft, there is a portion that is perpendicular to the axis of the shaft. Additionally, since they curve out and then in the same direction as the shaft form a prong, the arms can be said to extend along the longitudinal axis. The Examiner does not interpret this to mean it has to lie on the same axis.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1,12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
